

A CLARION CALL

BY

DR. M ANAND RAO, M.D.(hom)

The quest for the cure can be equaled with the evolution of the human existence. Man has been always in search of medicine which can cure his sufferings.

Since the evolution there have been hundreds of systems of medical cure. Hippocrates which can be traces 400 BC is the known personality and icon of the medicine. Different people tried different methods for treating the diseases, but the goal of all these personalities was to give humans, relief from the sufferings.

In this quest homoeopathy was also originated and the father of homoeopathy Dr.Samuel Hahnemann, gave to this world the most refined and delicate system of medicine to cure the ailing humanity in the most safe, painless and fastest method compared to all other systems of the world.

The medical educational system in India of late has passed from a number of doldrums and since a few years due to formation of AYUSH department under ministry of health, there has been equalization of the medical system all over the country. Due to this homoeopathy which had once a status of diploma was given the status of graduation and later the post graduation with different specialties have also started.

When a student enters a graduation college with homoeopathy as his subject, he has hardly any idea about the system because many of the times he enters it due to his or her parent's direction. He knows not that he is to become a first class citizen of India who shall be called a doctor who can treat the ailing humanity with the most refined system of medicine homoeopathy.

In recent time a negative trend is being observed where in our fresh passed out doctors are being attracted to other system of medicine which is much prevalent in the society. There are many reasons to be attributed to this trend. It gives instant money. It gives instant fame. It is easy to practice.

But friends remember all easy things are temporary and do not give satisfaction to our inner heart and soul.

Therefore I request all the students who perceive Homoeopathy as their subject, to practice only homoeopathy in future. You only have the power to show the world that homoeopathy is the most refined medical science in the world.
